

1. Edinburgh Napier University endeavours to deliver courses and programmes of study in accordance with the description set out on this website. The University makes every effort to ensure that the information contained on this site is accurate but it is possible that some changes will occur between the date of information being uploaded and the start of the academic year to which it relates and users are encouraged to check for any updates or changes to the information published when researching and applying for their chosen programme of study.
2. Although reasonable steps are taken to provide the programmes and services described, Edinburgh Napier University cannot guarantee the provision of any course or facility and we may make variations to the contents or methods of delivery of courses, discontinue, merge or combine courses and introduce new courses if such action is reasonably considered to be necessary by the University. Such circumstances include (but are not limited to) industrial action, lack of demand, departure of key staff, changes in legislation or Government policy, withdrawal or reduction of funding or other circumstances beyond the University's reasonable control.
3. If Edinburgh Napier University discontinues any courses, it will use its reasonable endeavours to provide a suitable alternative course. In addition, courses may change during the course of study and in such circumstances the University will normally undertake a consultation process prior to any such changes and seek to ensure that no student is unreasonably prejudiced as a consequence of any such change.
4. Edinburgh Napier University does not accept responsibility, and excludes any liability for damage to students' property (other than through the negligence of the University, its staff or agents), or for the consequences of any modification or cancellation of any course, or part of a course, offered by the University but will take into consideration the effects on individual students and seek to minimise the impact of such effects where reasonably practicable.
5. Edinburgh Napier University cannot accept any liability for disruption to its provision of educational or other services caused by circumstances beyond its control, but the University will take all reasonable steps to minimise the resultant disruption to such services.